First of all, thank you to everyone who came out to the show to support 2 amazing iChannel artist, Logos and John Boy's Courage.

The show was on Friday at The Pageant in St. Louis, Missouri. For all of those who came out to the show, you probably seen Virgil and I standing outside The Pageant giving away tickets. We just wanted to say thank you to all the people who came up and showed some iChannel love. Such as Kelly, Amanda, Lidia, Carly, Jeff, Niel, and everyone else's name I couldn't remember.

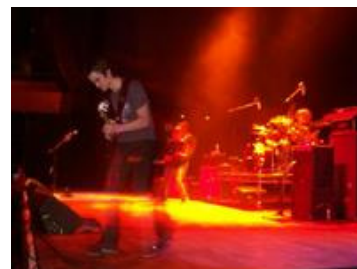

John Boy's Courage were the first band to take the stage. They played all of your favorite songs from "Indian Summer" to "Wither."

After John Boy's Courage, Logos took to the stage. I would say that the majority of people who came out to the show were there for Logos. Logos played their familiar favorites like "The Lonely Man" and "Growing Apart" from their debut album In The Silence, but they also played a new track from their upcoming EP which should be out in late February. The guys in Logos didn't hold back either. They all had their solos during the set and Cullen broke out the "Talk Box" for a few songs too.

If you haven't had a chance to catch Logos live, then check them out on the 25th of January, at the Ten Mile House in St. Louis, Missouri, on 9420 Gravois Rd. in the heart of Affton. Logos will be on at 10pm.

If you want to see John Boy's Courage live, you can catch them on the 21st at Cicero's in St. Louis, Missouri, on 6691 Delmar Blvd. It's a free show, 16+, show starts at 9pm.

Rock on,

Rider

I've never seen Logos before until the other night. I was really impressed by their set. I still love The Incurables though. iChannel needs to start playing them. Reply to this comment!
