It's really starting to come down to the wire on "P. Diddy's StarMaker," the new MTV reality show, and St. Louis contestant Todd Sarvies is still in the mix. Sarvies, known locally for his band John Boy's Courage, survived another week on the show after performing Fall Out Boy's "Thnks Fr Th Mmrs" in front of the judges. One judge said Diddy may not get Sarvies, but he definitely does, and called him unique and special. Another judge faulted Sarvies for performing another Fall Out Boy song, saying he should have written a song and performed it. The third judge said Sarvies knows who he is an artist and could go all the way. The grand prize is a Bad Boy Records contract.

"P. Diddy's StarMaker" airs Sunday nights on MTV.

The only reason to watch the show is if you're a friend of Todd's. Thank God for DVR. Whether a Bad Boys Records contract is a good thing, I don't know. But the show, like Idol, which I detest, gives people exposure.
